Dear Harvey,

Just a note of thanks for lending us your baseball memorabilia and books and working with us to create the exhibit "Writing Baseball" that we mounted in Baker-Berry Library over the summer, as well as for your talk of the same name. While the exhibit was on display I regularly saw visitors stopping to look at it, including a prospective Dartmouth baseball player, and received great feedback on your talk as well. We had a terrific turnout, as you know, with an audience that included people from all across the campus as well as community members. I even got an email from a community member thanking us for the talk and asking to be notified of future Dartmouth Author talks! It was clear from the questions and discussion that followed that the audience really enjoyed your talk and that you helped set the bar.

Again, many thanks for a fun, engaging exhibit and talk.

All the best,
